

A Visit with Georgia Mobile Audiology

This is the Georgia Mobile Audiology truck where I will have my hearing tested. The truck is bright yellow and uses solar power. That is why the truck is named Sunny!

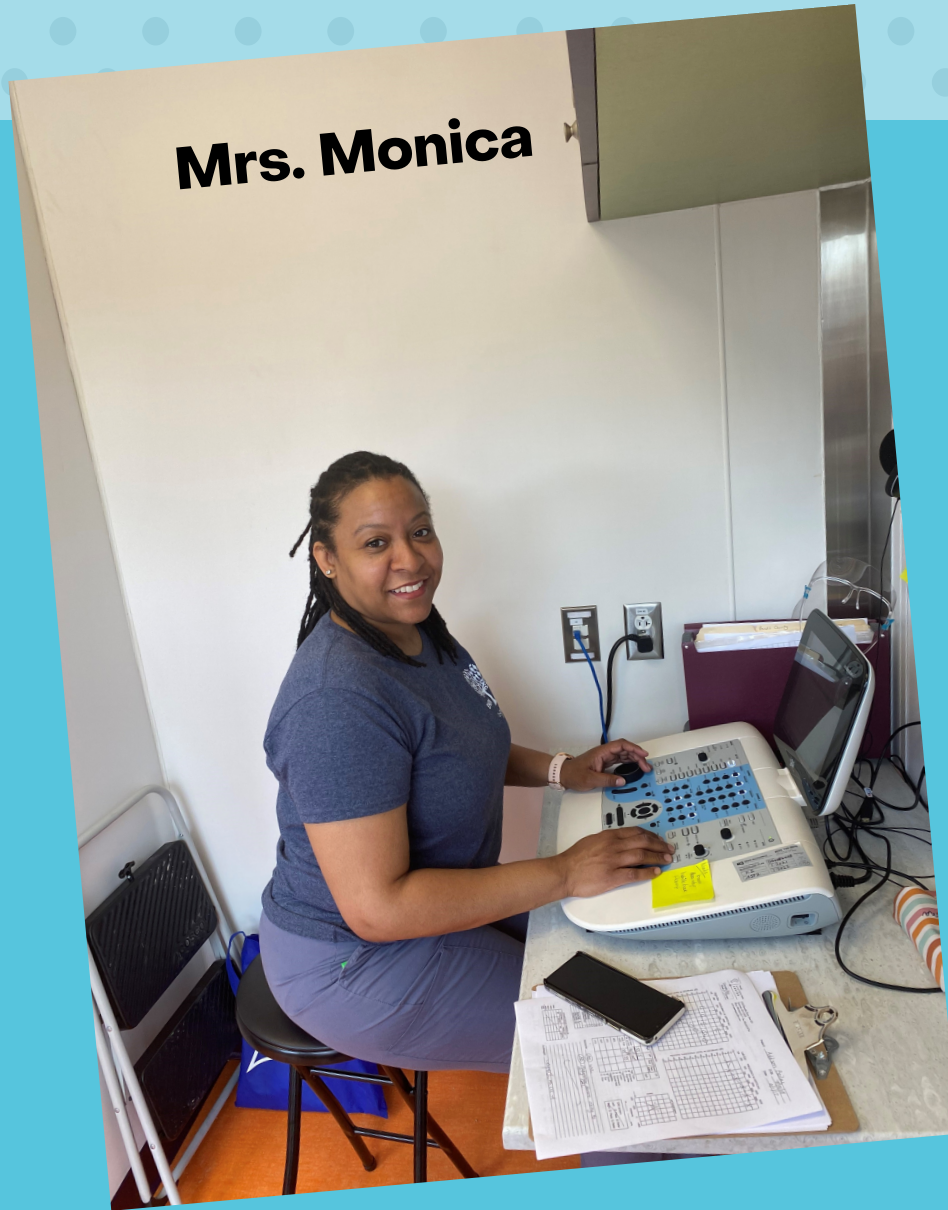

The side of the truck has stairs and a wheelchair ramp. Now all the kids in Georgia can get on the truck to have their hearing tested like me.

The inside of the truck looks like an office. There are chairs, small tables, and computers.

Mrs. Monica

These are audiologists who could test my hearing. They are very nice and want to make sure I can hear.

When it's my turn, I will sit in the soundbooth. There is a thick door, but I'm not afraid because I can have a grown up go in the booth with me.

There is a big window so I can see the audiologist. It is very quiet in the soundbooth.

The audiologist will shine a light and look into my ears. It may tickle a little, but it will not hurt.

The audiologist needs to take a picture of the inside of my ear. She puts a tiny ear bud in my ear, and then we look at the picture on the screen.

Next, the audiologist will put headphones on my ears. This is so I can listen for the beep.

I have to listen carefully for the beep because it might be a soft sound. If I hear a loud sound and it scares me, I need to tell the adult how the sound makes me feel.

Audiologists like to play games. I may have to put a toy in a bucket, push a button, or raise my hand when I hear a beep.

I finished having my hearing tested. I did a great job, and I'm so proud of myself!
